Investment Approach

NovaPort Capital (NovaPort) is a benchmark unaware, active investment manager whose investment approach is underpinned by the belief that there are significant investment opportunities in microcap companies due to inefficiencies within the market.

NovaPort invests with high conviction in the companies selected for the portfolio, with the potential for lower turnover and higher returns. Their fundamental, research-led approach focuses on buying companies with improving outlooks at a significant discount to their assessed valuation. NovaPort pays particular attention to the underlying quality of company earnings, industry structure and management with an aim to limit downside risk.

NovaPort’s investment process is built on a considerable research effort which conducts in-depth proprietary research via field visits and meetings with company management, competitors, customers and suppliers. In addition, NovaPort studies demographics, industry trends and the competitive environment in which the company operates. NovaPort applies a disciplined, research-based process to its management of the Fund’s investment.
